Send Flags

Send Flags The Send flag are the flags used on the send poles. The size of the send flag is determined according to the length of the pole. A 50 * 75 cm send flag is used on a 3-meter pole, a 70 * 105 cm send flag is used on a 4-meter pole, and a 100 * 150 cm flag is used on a 5 and 6 meter long send pole. A 150*225 cm flag is used on a 7 and 8 meter long pole. In general, a raschel fabric single layer send flag is preferred. In addition to the raschel fabric, the double layer send on satin fabric is one of the preferred send flags.

Post flags are a type of flag used by institutions and organisations on outdoor poles. It is used in two different ways, vertical and horizontal. Send flags are produced in a very meticulous way as it is the type of flag most affected by external weather conditions. The flag image prepared in computer environment is printed on 120 gr raschel fabric using digital printing technique. After the printing stage, it is heat-treated in fixing machines between 200C - 230C degrees in order for the printing to be vivid, the colours given to the flag to become clear and not to be affected by weather conditions. We are aware that the reason for the long life of the products we produce is the first class quality material used in production. For this reason, we choose our fabrics suitable for the place where the products will be used and our paints from high quality products that preserve their vitality. understanding.

Vertical Streamer

The vertical pennant is a type of corporate flag with a special logo printed in a long thin structure. Generally, the size is determined by sticking to 1/4 ratio. While the corporate identity of your company comes to the fore with the vertical pennant, your flag attracts attention with its stylish appearance.

Vertical pennants are generally produced from raschel fabric. Three edges of the pennant are sewn with double stitches. The part of the flag that passes to the pole is sewn to the fabric with a strong material we call narrow weaving. Digital textile printed flags are highly resistant to weather opposition. In order for the flag to be resistant to sunlight, we use first class sublimation-based digital printing inks. Our priority is always customer satisfaction oriented service understanding.
